Sergeant Position

Question One

I possess attributes that qualify me as a good supervisor. Firstly, I am proactive. Secondly, I believe in stating and achieving distinct objectives. Thirdly, I observe my emotional balance at all times. Working with people as a supervisor assumes that I will have to use authority and handle matters of conflict (Joshi, 2015). Self-control of my emotions ensures I meet the task requirement. Fourthly, I am also honest and ethical at everything I do. Finally, I have good communication skills and I am open to suggestions.

Question Two

My major weakness is that I am conservative in nature. In other words, I show reservation on a variety of issues. I recognize the need to be outgoing when dealing with others and introducing new ways. I plan to engage diverse social activities to enhance the level of my interaction and openness.

Question Three

In order to combat my weaknesses, I plan to engage in a variety of leadership forums. Such workshops sharpen one's skill regarding the techniques of leadership. In fact, I admit the need for continuous learning as a supervisor, so I will invest in training (Covey, 2013).

Question Four

I desire the position of sergeant officer, and I am sure I will fit in the job description perfectly. I have valuable supervisory skills that I am bringing to the department. In fact, I believe it is time for the police officers to deliver quality and ample services to the public. I am goal oriented and hard working. Moreover, I know the mission and the vision of the firm, and I believe in it.

Question Five

In order to follow the updates in the force, I plan to embrace continuous professional education. It is a system when people continue to attain knowledge in the course of their career (McChrystal, Collins, Silverman, & Fussell, 2015). The professionals are updated through holding weekly workshops where they share the latest development in the law enforcement fraternity.

Question Seven

I am familiar with the computer technology. I can operate different software such as MS Word, Excel, PowerPoint, internet explorer and database among others. Moreover, I plan to do a short practical course in case software emerges that requires my utilization.

Question Eight

I have a number of qualities that applicable to the position. First, I am a person of integrity. Secondly, I am flexible and adaptive to change. I am also goal-oriented and self-motivated to accomplish a task

Question Nine

I am a team player and flexible working with others. In fact, I lead in performing a duty through motivation rather than authorization.
